This Company, National in its character, offers by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Plans, the most desirable means of insuring life ever presented to the public.

The rates of premium, being largely reduced, are made as favorable as the interests of the best Mutual Companies can safely afford. All speculations and unfounded theories of Profit, Dividends, and misunderstanding, as to which are to pay the losses, have been avoided.

Several new and diverse plans have been adopted, which possess many features of the INCOMPARABLE PRODUCING POLICY, PICTURE PREMIUM and ENDOWMENT. In the former, the policy-holder is strictly insured for life in the sum payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to the interest on a large portion of the premium paid, which, in addition to the amount of insurance, he has paid.

The attention of persons contemplating insuring the lives of others is called to the amount of insurance offered by the National Company, which is the special advantage offered by the policies of the old-established Company Regulars. JOHN H. LYNDE, - - PROPRIETOR.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31, 1869.

Aroostook Trade for Bangor.

That the future trade of Aroostook is coming to Bangor has never been a question by those who have properly studied the chances. The arguments to secure direction for it elsewhere are labored and without foundation. All attempts to divert it to other outlets are and will be but temporary and artificial. These facts are so apparent as to scarcely need the support of argument. For, added to the natural desire of the Aroostook people to retain close connection with the rest of the State, and the interest they have in State affairs, is the fact that by location they are tributary to the Penobscot valley, which, in turn, is dependent upon Aroostook as its natural commercial and industrial ally.

But the present struggle to decide if an Aroostook Railroad, and the senseless defeat of that measure of strength to both sections, together with certain indirect means used to discourage the plan, has created an impression that upon the success or defeat of that road depended the question of our receiving the trade of Aroostook. This idea is erroneous, for the facts will show. While with that road we might have received more prestige of trade from that section, and that rich county might have been rapidly built up to be the most prosperous in New England, yet without it Bangor is to increase its trade in that direction rapidly, and Aroostook will grow gradually before many years to be able to locate the means and the course of her trade.

We have presented from time to time facts to show that the farmers and traders of Aroostook, even against apparent obstacles, seek our market in preference to employing the inducements held out by the New Brunswick outlet. Everything goes to prove that our market and our facilities for communication with other parts have superior attractions sufficient to overcome immense odds. Island communication. Even the people of Northern Aroostook make the entire distance to that city much poorer and circuitous post road, rather than travel the short distance to reach the St. Andrews Railroad.

This is the condition of affairs regardless of any railroad discussion above Oldtown. Now that the new Railroad is finding its way up rivers every step it proceeds to our chances of securing the great Aroostook trade. Every town it reaches adds many towns to our trade and travel. Aroostook is coming nearer Bangor every day. In respect to early locomotion and expensive transportation, we shall be sixty miles nearer to all parts of the county of Aroostook this year than heretofore. A railroad to Winn secures the trade of all the border towns of Penobscot and Aroostook without competition, and also draws the attention for the northerly towns to the necessity for better communication by the best means at hand. Already the people of Presque Isle, according to the Sentinel, are taking measures to improve their connection with the Penobscot valley direct. A proposition is now made to build a road from some point at or near Presque Isle village thence by the most direct and feasible route by the way of Island Falls, to intersect the military road at or near Molunkus. At present the travel and trade coming that way is through Houlton, twenty miles out of the way.

But this is not the end of this improvement to be secured by the E. & N. A. Railway. Still another season will connect us with the border towns of the State. Bangor will be only forty miles of post road from Houlton. Our merchants will be able to supply the whole trade of Hodgdon and neighboring towns. Their trade that chooses to go beyond us will find its course through Bangor. Thus in effect the best of the trade of the whole county will be turned this way. That being accomplished, the people there will find the advantages our markets present to be such that they cannot afford to go elsewhere, and the new Aroostook Railroad will be shortly secured.

With these considerations, our merchants have it in their power to extend their trade in Aroostook County very materially the coming season, and to lay the foundation for a rich harvest in the no distant future.

THE CIVIL TENURE OFFICE LAW is the theme of conversation in political circles all over the country. A speedy settlement is not anticipated, according to Washington dispatches. It is expected that the House will grant a committee of conference, and parliamentary usages will compel the Speaker, to appoint as the committee two members in favor of repeal, and one in opposition. Mr. Butler and a Democrat will be the majority of the committee, and Bingham the minority. The Senate committee is equally tied just directly the opposite—Trumbull and Edmunds against repeal and Grimes for repeal. Thus will make the joint committee a tie. The Democratic member will, of course, agree to nothing but repeal, and from what is known of Butler and Grimes, they will be unyielding. The Tribune thinks that no one looks for harmony in such a committee and no one doubts but that after some delays a new committee of conference will be asked for, and then the matter will be settled. It seems evident now that the House will have to recede from its present position.

Can any good come out of Nazareth? We believe so. New York furnishes the brains and motive power of nearly all organized swindles in the country, and its officers have usually harbored the villains. But there seems to be a swallowing there, which the country will gladly hail. We gladly publish the following proclamation of Mayor Hall, and hope the warning may be heeded:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
New York, March 27, 1869.

To the Press of the United States:

I beg to caution strangers against New York circulars, tickets, shares and promises issued by co-operative unions for gift enterprises, or in any other possible scheme whereby property or value is promised or contemplated to be paid. Every such an advertised scheme is necessarily a swindle and a false pretense. There does not and cannot exist any legal right for such schemes in this city. Country newspapers which advertise them simply aid in the swindle. If all newspapers, in the Union would now make a point of publishing and reiterating this information, they will be probably, and I think effectually, counteract the swindling intentions of those who use the mails for the false pretenses, and will also save the unwary hundreds of thousands of dollars.

[Signed] A. OAKEY HALL,
Mayor of the city of New York.

THE WAR DEPARTMENT. The movement of troops in execution of the consolidation of the army has already commenced. Official business is going on in the War Department, just as it did before the advent of General Sherman to the chief command. Secretary Rawlings now performs the duties of a title heretofore for Secretaries of War.

The Prince of Swindlers.

The bigamist Cunningham, recently overtaken in his career in New York, is a notorious example of the ingenuity capable to bold rascals reached by law. Few readers will remember that, when arrested, he told a story that his last act of bravery was committed for the purpose of depriving the prosecutors of the Rogers murder, and that his victim, Miss Eichmer, was an accomplice in that deed. Notwithstanding, thus, the jury promptly rendered a verdict of guilty, and he was sentenced to five years in Sing Sing Prison. He coolly thanked the Judge for having him so liberally treated in allowing as much as the law would allow, and the jury for having acted so promptly in the premises. He afterwards intimated that he had previously been incarcerated for similar crimes in other States. His history has been pretty well ventilated since his conviction. His real name is Cuming Wheeler, but on his departure from California, where he spent several years, he assumed the name of William Cornell Cunningham. He has a pleasing address, is an accomplished linguist, and a conversationalist. He is about 50 years of age. In person he is but above the medium size, wears a heavy mass of light brown hair, with mustache and chin whiskers of a fiery color. Upon his finger a massive ring has become stationary, from long indulgence in its position, and proclaims its owner's wealth and taste. His shrewdness is well shown in the first exploit of the Rogers murder developed in the New York papers.

Among the first moves this boy trickster can be obtained of his movements, is at the house of a Mr. Bedell, in York street, Jersey City, where he spent a few days in the first of November last, with a very choice lot about a California estate of Senator Gwin, the transfer of which he possessed the necessary papers. The property he represented, had been left by a Mr. Travers, resident in California, to an aged lady of the same name who had formerly been a friend of Mr. Bedell's house. The family were much excited and took measures of course to properly but, finding no return, Mr. Bedell, suddenly left the city.

He next turned up at South River. A little girl, whose parentage was unknown, had been adopted by a Mr. Bangs, and the pleasant stranger brought her a fortune of $100,000, the papers for the same for the property being, in this case, in the first, in his possession. He captivated Miss Bangs, married her, left her a mourner with watches, money and other property, and never returned. In the same manner he circulated about the country, making victims everywhere. His next operation was to visit the house of a Mr. Laird, in Piscataway Valley, Elizabeth county, calling him self William White, who he met in himself previously with the gentleman, having saved his son in a railroad accident. He found Mr. Laird, a daughter of many days, he fancied, and Miss Laird, a daughter of his, but was rejected. In attempting to get money from this place with a supply of Scott counterfeit, he found himself watched by Mr. Laird, and he made a journey by night, carpet bag in hand, through a thinly settled country, endeavoring to cross the Hudson river overhauled by officers. A long run and compelled to surrender. He had an examination before Justice Lawrence, at Orosa River, on the 18th of December, when he was committed to the White Plains Jail, for trial on a charge of burglary, the indictment coming from Monmouth county. Mr. and Mrs. Eichmer as well as Mr. Wyckoff appeared against him and identified him as the husband of their daughter. He left in custody of an officer, who, during the crowd who had been called together to witness this examination, that he was a Government detective, and would show them speedily for what purpose it was the married Lothario came. For many years he served in a subordinate position in Mexico, and after the downfall of Maximilian he was appointed Consul at the City of Mexico, where he acted for several years as Charge d'Affaires.

PATENT STATE PRISON. Mr. F. C. Wines, in an interesting review of the condition of the prisons of the United States, just published in the House at Home, pays the following well merited compliment to the Warden of the Maine State Prison:

Mr. Rice, Warden of the State Prison of Maine, purposes, and even looks of his way, widely interesting, reducing it practices every one which holds out a fair promise of good results. For one feature in his administration Mr. Rice deserves special praise. To make it a chief aim to give a complete trade to every convict who has the talent to learn it, and when term of imprisonment is long enough for the purpose. This is the case as well of policy as of humanity. To every virtuous trade is to place him above the need of resorting to crime. Many have origin in good mechanic, and you have opportunity and making him an honest man. Many learning a trade is thus saving the cost of supporting him for life. He is doing something for himself. As a consequence, his subsequent career is better, his spirits are more buoyant. His sense of unjust restraint is removed. His self-respect is increased, and he is more effective agency.

Financially the Maine prison has been unusually benefitted by the increased demand for the workmanship. The contract system, which had involved an annual loss of many thousand dollars, has been replaced by a system of working the convicts on account of the State, and I have followed this change. The balance-sheet for the first year in the presidency of the account. With an average of convict not exceeding there have been, during the administration, an annual surplus of earnings over expenditures of $16,000 to $20,000.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, March 30.

The President sent to the Senate today, in compliance with a resolution, the letter of Secretary Cass, giving his reasons for resigning a seat as member of President Buchanan's Cabinet, and also Buchanan's reply.

By direction of the Secretary of War a commission will assemble in New York on the 31st instant, to examine and report upon the subject of a bridge across the East River.

The President today sent only one nomination to the Senate, namely—that of Chas. Hamilton, to be Marshal for the District of Wisconsin. Gen. Hamilton was a classmate of President Grant at West Point, and rendered during the late war, principally in the South-west as a Major General.

The committee on Reconstruction, by a strict party vote, today agreed to report upon Butler's Virginia bill.

Documents before the Senate committee serve to show that there has been no over issue of Government bonds to the Central Pacific Railroad Company. The bonds were issued in accordance with the law and facts, and after the opinion of Attorney General Evarts had been given to the effect that the Secretary of the Treasury could no longer withhold them under Sec. 8 of the act of 1864, authorizing the issue of two-thirds the amount of bonds upon the completion of the work, in advance of the laying of the rails. It is also shown that the Union Pacific road is far from being completed to Ogden, as alleged. In the Echo and Weber Canons of the Wasatch Mountains, thirty miles east of Ogden, there are several miles of temporary track, with grades exceeding 200 feet to the mile, in use, upon which the Union Pacific Company have received the full quota of bonds, although the road is not built on the approved line of survey, and the tunnels are still unfinished, one of which will not be completed till the 30th of April, by which time the Central Pacific Company will have reached Ogden City with its completed track.

About fifty Texas gentlemen appeared before the Reconstruction committee this morning. Gov. Hamilton stated the case. The party, which is 90 votes on the new Constitution, and discussed the legal rights and suffrage clauses. He spoke against all disqualifications as a permanency. The further hearing was adjourned until Thursday.

Arraigned for Murder

CHATHAM, (Ontario) March 30.

Henry Travers, alias Charles Alice, arrested there charged with the murder of Patrick Rooney in a saloon in Springfield, Ill., in February, 1863, had his preliminary examination today, and was committed to jail for extradition.

Freshets in New York

ROCHESTER, March 30.

There is considerable excitement in this city and along the Genesee Valley above, in consequence of the rise of the river. The ordinary high water mark has been reached and the river is still rising. Telegrams from above warn the citizens that there is danger of an extraordinary flood.

SCHENECTADY, March 29

The Mohawk is clear from Schoharie Creek east to about two miles west of this place. Above the Creek the ice is still in the river. Two miles west of here the ice has formed a dam, and the water is as high as was ever known. It is overflowing the flat on the south side, and several farm houses are under water. Four miles west of here the water is six feet deep in the road, rendering it wholly impassible

Railroad Accident

CHICAGO, March 30.

Another frightful accident occurred on the Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw Railroad. At half past three this morning, just east of Eureka, the eastern bound freight train, while crossing a bridge three hundred feet long, at that place, was thrown from the track by a broken rail. The engine was precipitated from the bridge turning over in its descent and alighting on its wheels. Nine cars were demolished and very badly damaged. The engineer, Wm. Morgan, was instantly killed, and the fireman, Corry, was severely injured. Seventy feet of the bridge were torn away, and the train and road are a fearful wreck.

Quick Passage of a Bangor Vessel.

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.

The Revolution in Cuba.

HAVANA, March 30.

Mr Cadrington, U S Consular agent at Cibra, who was recently brought here in chains on suspicion of being a rebel spy, was released today at the intercession of Acting Consul General Hall

The control of the police of Havana is to be placed in the hands of the civil authorities.

The police of Matanzas arrested two Cubans on board of an American vessel in the Bay, while they were attempting to make their escape to the United States.

Heroic Conduct of a Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter.

PROVIDENCE, March 30.

Yesterday a boy, containing two soldiers from Fort Adams, and a boy named Lynch, was capsized by the rough sea in Newport harbor. Miss Ida Lewis, daughter of the light keeper on the Lime Rocks, heard the cries of the men and put out in a boat and succeeded in saving the two soldiers, but the boy Lynch sunk just as she reached him. Miss Lewis has before saved life under similar circumstances.

Horrible Tragedy.

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.

Mr. Blackstone, of the firm of Frinston & Blackstone, picture frame makers, yesterday morning chopped his wife and two children to pieces with an axe and then drowned himself in the Delaware River. On his body was a paper stating that he had been robbed and was a ruined man and giving this as a reason for his murderous acts. He was probably insane.

The Forty-First Congress.

FIRST SESSION.

WASHINGTON, March 30.

SENATE.

The bill continuing the Freedmen's Hospitals at Richmond, Vicksburg and Washington was passed.

Mr Wilson, from the committee on military affairs reported joint resolution for the protection of soldiers and their wives by providing for the payment of pensions to persons and not through attorneys or claim agents. Laid over.

Mr Kelley presented a petition and advocated the bill.

Mr Wilson also favored.

After further discussion the bill was passed.

Several bills reviving pensions were passed.

The bill to renew the patent of Hoe's printing press was debated till the expiration of the morning hour and the bill went over.

The House then proceeded to business on the Speaker's table, and took up the Senate message announcing the committee of conference on the Tenure of Office bill

Mr Butler (of Mass.) moved to agree to the request for a committee of conference

Mr Schenck moved that the House recede from its disagreements, which motion he remarked had precedence over every other motion.

Mr Woodward moved that the House insist on its disagreement

Pending which Mr Schenck's motion to recede—yeas 90, nays 19.

The House then voted to insist on its disagreements and agree to a committee of conference.

Subsequently the Speaker appointed as such committee Butler of Mass., Schenck of Ohio, and Bingham of Ohio.

The Senate bill to amend the act of July 25, 1868, removing political disabilities, was passed.

Mr Farnsworth offered a concurrent resolution for final adjournment of this session on the 6th of April, at 12 o'clock, and that there could be no question of the resolutions of both Houses to adjourn at that time, and to have it inserted in the Congressional Globe.

The resolution was adopted—yeas 120, nays 11.

Mr Paine, from the Committee on Elections, reported that Jacob F Read, claiming the seat from the Third District of South Carolina, had forfeited, to take the test oath

Mr Randall, from the minority of committee, presented a report, and introduced a bill to remove Read's disability—Referred.

Mr Hooper called up the motion to reconsider the vote by which on the 15th instant, the bill to amend the act of July 20, 1868, imposing taxes on distilled spirits and tobacco was referred to the committee on ways and means.

After a long discussion the question was taken on Mr Bishop's motion to strike out the proviso extending times for withdrawing whiskey from bonded warehouses, and the motion was struck out—yeas 89, nays 69

The bill was then passed, without a division.

WASHINGTON ITEMS The Boston Advertiser contains the following Washington gleanings:

One of the first nominations made by President Grant was that of Mr Kingsley, son-in-law of Minister Hale, to be Secretary of Legation to Madrid in place of Mr. Perry. It has not yet been acted on by the Senate Foreign Relations committee, and the Secretary of State has sent a large number of letters from Morris, Hale and Perry to the House for examination in secret session, which shows a deplorable condition of things at the Spanish capital, and will have to be considered in coming to a decision on Mr Kingsley's nomination

The commission between Spain on the one hand and Peru, Chili and Bolivia on the other will probably not meet until June by which time Peru may be able to have a full minister here. It will be remembered that the war between Spain and these powers was left to an end by the mediation of our government, and that the matters of difference to be adjusted here through the advice and counsel of the President. Two or three months will be occupied in the work.

Perley telegraphs the Journal:

"If Cuba is now the watchword of those who were engaged during the Andy Johnson administration in procuring places and pardons, and it is rumored that they have been enlisted by promises of bonds of the new Republic, now being printed in New York. It is to be hoped that the negotiations with great Britain for the payment of our Alabama claims will not be checkmated by the open furnishing of men, money and munitions of war to the Cuban insurgents. The well known prudence of Secretary Fish and of Mr. Sumner will prevent any diplomatic demonstrations to which Spain can take objection, but Admiral Porter may not be equally careful.

FIRE OF A MATCH.

The Portland papers relate that on Sunday afternoon about five o'clock, a crazy man leaped from the window of a house near the Bethel, whereupon all his clothes and hair took down the street. After much difficulty he was seized by the officers and citizens in the vicinity, and carried to the station house. With the exception of a shirt not a rag of clothing had he on. But he marched through the streets singing a tune at the top of his lungs, on his way to the station, followed by a crowd of some hundred citizens. He was a man of superb physique, and had a martial bearing. His name was Maddock, and he had lodged at the police station the night previous. He had recently escaped from the Insane Asylum at Augusta.

LOCAL AND MAINE ITEMS.

THE CHILDREN'S FAIR—OPENING DAY. The Fair which has been announced for several weeks to come off for the purpose of raising funds for the "Children's Home," opened at Norombega Hall yesterday morning. For a Fair day, the weather was the coldest that could be imagined. A cold rain which almost froze as it fell, came down in torrents, and the dissolving snow upon the sidewalks, made the walking as bad as could well be. Yet notwithstanding the unpropitiousness of the weather, large numbers turned out to give a benefit to the noble charity for which such extensive preparations had been making. We hate not the space to particularize as fully as we should like, the varied and beautiful object, which were offered for sale, but we will try and give our readers, who did not able to see for themselves, a general idea of the appearance of the hall &c.

At the further end of the hall from the main entrance, over the raised seats in the rear of the platform, a stage has been erected, in the usual manner during the Sanitary Fair, for a refreshment room, and it is entered by passing out of the door, at the right of the hall in the rear of the platform, and passing up a flight of stairs. Here everything is arranged in the best manner for the comfort and gratification of the hungry. The choicest food in the greatest profusion in the market, has been provided, and by the skillful hands of the ladies who have charge of the room, is served up in the most inviting manner. Not to say by which hand, but it is sorted by the most willing and attentive waiters. Directly in front of the eating room and separating and hiding it from the hall, is the stage, arranged for the exhibition of tableaux and the performances of plays, got up in a very neat and artistic manner. Festoons of bunting in the National colors depend from the center of the ceiling and diverge to all parts of the hall, and National flags and the American Eagle, perched above the drop curtain at the front of the stage, hanging in his husk which and blue complete the arrangements of the decorating Committee. As you enter the main entrance of the hall directly before you under the balcony, is the table of the Universalist Society, every hand somely decorated, and completely loaded down with rich and beautiful articles. Over the centre of this table in letters of green forming an arch, is the motto, "The Universalist Liberal things." Passing up at the right hand, the first table under the gallery is that of the New Church, with the motto, "Believe the Faithful." "Lead to the Lord." The more than spacious stand from this little store, with a double bounty God will give them more. This table is also very handsomely decorated and loaded with the beautiful

On the same side are, in the order named, the table of the "Episcopal Society"—very ornamentally ornamented—the Second and First Methodist Societies, all of them loaded down with beautiful and costly gifts.

On the other side of the hall the first table is that of the First Baptist Society, with the motto, "Feed my Lambs." The First Parish comes next with the motto, "The Lord loveth the cheerful giver." Then comes the Universalist with the motto, "Do not weary in well doing." Next is the Second Baptist.

All these tables are so well filled and so tastefully arranged, that it would be impossible for us to attempt a description of each.

The Hammond Street Society have a table in front and on each side of the stage, where fruit, confectionery and cakes may be had to an extent limited only by the capacity of the wallets of the purchasers. The First Parish Society have also a table near the centre of the hall, filled with choicest greenhouse plants and flowers.

In the anti-room at the right of the entrance to the hall, is the "Art Gallery," which must be seen to be appreciated. In the first place that has ever been got up in this city, and the catalogue, embraces 68 subjects, which is simple truth to say that "many" of them can be found even in the finest European Galleries. This is under the charge of ladies of the Episcopal Society, and no one who has seen the skill and taste displayed in the arrangement of the Gallery, will allow a friend to leave the hall without visiting it. In the centre of the room is a pretty tent, from which every person who holds a ticket draws a prize. Believing fully in the old adage that "chance does it all," they have none of that kind among the tickets.

Among the contributions to the Fair are Oil paintings—among them the fine head and shoulders work of, and a present from a gentleman of Gardiner, Mr. F. E. Ilsley. Chromos, Engravings, Photographs beautiful wax, worsted and embroidery, and in fact everything that can possibly be found in a first class Fair. It does not seem to be the desire and spirit of either time or expense in getting up their contributions, and it is hoped that the patrons of the Fair will be as liberal in making their purchases, so that enough, and more than enough may be derived from it, to carry out the object for which it was devised. And if the patronage of yesterday is any indication, this will be done.

A very large number of our citizens dined at the hall, rather than go home through the storm, and all were unanimous in their expressions of satisfaction at the admirable manner in which everything is conducted. To prevent a crowd in the eating room, tickets are issued for only as many as can be seated at the table comfortably and when these have eaten others are admitted.

The next little fisher called "The Voice," edited by Mrs. G. F. Godfrey and Miss Selena W. Pierce, published for the benefit of the Fair, created quite a sensation, and was in great demand. The first completed picture, aided by the contribution of the Rev. of Bangor, have made a spicy and interesting sheet, and it may be considered a decided success, both in a literary and financial point of view. It will command a large sale at every body will send a copy to all friends abroad.

If the Fair was well attended during the day, what shall we say of the evening. The Hall was packed full. What could have been done, if it had been pleasant we don't know, but hundreds must necessarily have been unable to obtain admittance.

The entertainment consisted of a closing Tableau, illustrative of the angels appearing to the Shepherds, which was one of the finest things ever produced in Norombega. This was followed by some excellent character and capital comedy acting, a pretty piece of business. The interest of the hour at which the entertainment closed, forbids our particularizing, but when we say that everything was carried out in the best manner and to the entire satisfaction of the large audience, we but faintly echo the sentiment of all who witnessed the performances. This evening the attraction will be the Old Folks' Concert, and we advise no one to go without a full wallet on, else he will not be able to fill the bill to the satisfaction of himself.

—At the Exeter meeting-house, 26th inst., Parish, on Monday evening, the reception of the Rectorship by the Rev. Daniel Goddwin was resolved. Much pleasure was expressed that Mr. Goodwin should have decided to expedite to dissolve his connection with the Parish, of which he has been in charge for more than six years, and with which his relations have uniformly been of the most friendly and harmonious character. A Committee from among the most influential and earnest members of the Parish, was appointed to confer with Mr Goodwin, and endeavor to prevail upon him to withdraw his resignation.

—Among the attractions of the Fair in aid of the Orphans' Home, "The Voice," the little quarto paper, edited by the ladies, takes the lead. We make several selections from it which will be found on our fourth page today.

—A Portland telegram informs us that a small wooden block, South side of Fore St., foot of Franklin, owned by Mrs James Stanley, and occupied by several stores, was burned yesterday morning. Insured ten thousand.

RESIGNED. Mr. Charles M. Goodwin, Assistant Engineer of the steam revenue cutting Dexter, on this station, resigned. Soon after this resignation of Washington was accepted last week, and he left Steamer Sturgis for his home in Bangor. For the purpose of engaging in mercantile pursuits. Mr Goodwin has been in the service for a number of years, and for some time past has remained on this station. He has numerous friends in the city by his many sterling qualities and gentlemanly deportment, who will be much pained by the officers of the Mahoning and Sturgis. We wish him every happiness and prosperity in his newly chosen avocation.—Portland Argus.

The Buck Times learns that Frank Lyon, late of that city, second mate, and Richard Hall of the British Provinces, seaman, were both lost overboard from the mainsail of the ship Edward Lee, on the first day of March, in a heavy gale which the bark encountered on her voyage from Bath to Havana. Mr. Lyon was the son of Mr. James Lyon of Bath, and was a promising young man

SELECT ITEM. Our Biddeford correspondent writes the following items:

A young man named Patterson broke jail Monday morning and got away, but was caught before night. He got out of the cell by filing off the bars. He was imprisoned for stealing. He had broken jail once before, and been found in Massachusetts and brought back only a few weeks before.

David Barker rendered his "First Courtship" here on Monday night to a crowded house. It was well rendered and contained some fine points.

The Pythagorean G A R established here last summer has been recently reorganized, and Capt W H. Taylor elected Commander. It was also named Post Marshall in honor of Capt Thomas H Marshall of the city who was one of the earliest victims in the late war.

W. M. Burt, publisher of the Progressive Age, has been sick and confined to his room for some time. He is now growing slowly better SMART SAYING. A young man in Portland, who is employed by the Portland Advertiser, a paper on which are photographed one hundred faces, which he got by promising with somebody's request to send a dollar and get a beautiful photograph. It is a very mean and cheap swindle now-a-days, and advertises to send you cheap "specimens" of Treasury notes in any amount, to suit, and enjoins great secrecy upon the parties to whom the proposition is made. It is better for the newspapers to expose all these swindles, and yet it appears to be the case that many people can be taken by the class of sharpers.

—The Ardroscoggin Herald says a fatal accident happened at Page's Mill, one mile from Mechanic Falls the other day. Mr. Mayberry was at work in the upper mill and rode a little boy ten or twelve years old down below to bring him an order. Hearing an unusual sound he looked and saw the mill and went below, but of what he found the boy with his clothing wound around a piece of shafting upon which he was caught, that had been whirling for some time, terribly mangled and striking the log with his arms at each revolution against every projection in the room. The little fellow was a sickening spectacle. The little fellow was immediately bleeding profusely from numerous cuts and bruises. One leg was broken in three places, one arm in two places and the feet badly bruised. We understand that the physicians have declined to amputate any of the limbs, fearing that he could not survive the operation, yet at the time of writing this, he is as comfortable as could be expected.

—The Waterville Mail says that Mr. George E Sharp's handsome pair of horses, well built and paired, matched, that weighed, when new, was a few days more and the other a few days less than a year old, 1850 pounds. They are Hambletonian, and very fine samples of that class of stock.

—The Mail says that the persons named in the act of incorporation of the Waterville Saving Bank, met at People's Bank on Tuesday last, accepted the charter, chose Homer Fairchild, Esq., as Secretary, voted in several additional members, and empowered a committee of three to prepare a code of by laws, to be submitted at an adjourned meeting which will be held next Monday.

—The Journal says the Lewiston Mills are to build a new Picker House, 40x40 as soon as the ground opens.

—The Mail says that the Methodist Society of Waterville, have their church in such a state of forwardness that they will occupy the vestry a week from next Sabbath—Sabbath school in the forenoon and sermon and other appropriate services in the afternoon.

—The Lewiston Journal says nine bottles labelled "Continental Bourbon Whiskey," and filled with the beverage, were seized by the Police, Friday, on the premises of Tim. otey McGilliendy.

—Mayor Parker, of Lewiston, according to the Journal, has been to Augusta getting out of the clause of war, fronts, the actual allowance to be made to Lewiston. It is found that the amount to be reimbursed to the city is not far from $41,000—$100 for every 3 years of service (410) since July, 1862. The credits such that period are as follows: 019 three years' men; 167 one year's men; one two years' man; 95 nine months' men—amounting to $30,907. Thirteen men are yet in dispute, but probably the gross allowance will be about $41,000.

Correspondence of the Daily Whig.

Letter from Boston.

BOSTON, March 29.

To the Editor of the Whig:

Everybody who reads the papers will remember the many eventful regrets which accompanied the exit of the Chinese Embassy to their country. One of them, and the most singular, occurred during their stay in Boston, when fashionable society was startled by the announcement that Mr. Emile de Champ, the quiet little French Secretary, had contracted an engagement of marriage with a Boston belle. The circumstances attending this sudden outflow of affection were carefully kept from the public eye. Even the argus-eyed reporters were compelled to labor in the dark, each wondering with the rest of the world how so queer a match was made up. Since that time, however, the progress of events has developed some interesting facts. M de Champ, it is said, is rather an impecunious individual, although possessed of considerable ability and occupying a very prominent public position. Soon after his arrival in this city, the lady in question was on board the Embassy in his interpretation. Mr Goodwin has been in the employ of the Embassy in his interpretation. ORPHAN MADGE.

The theatre of Broadway sun, very falling full upon the low, dilapidated roof of the building—a school-house under the hill, making the room beneath so hot and uncomfortable that the children who sat upon the back seat, close to the open windows, turned themselves restlessly with their eyes on the cooling ing glances, whenever the teacher's back was turned, and the larger buttered tree in the yard, where, still earlier shade they, and even their parents before them, had been accustomed to the hen noon-day luncheon from time immemorial, while even the freckle-faced with mischief upon the roof seat, whose person was a well ventilated by means of sundry apertures in his garments, not made by the tailor, that alone would have supposed it the last thing in the world to keep cool, presented a countenance unusually marked by study, irregular regularly—dirty beads of perspiration rivulets fair—shining down his and found their way to the chocolate-if they were lost to view among the the dirty shirt collar beneath.

It was certainly near noon, and the le people were getting heartily tired of the confinement of the school room. Dark feet beat impatient but stealthy tattoo upon the floor beneath; books were thrust hastily, and with some ostentation, perhaps, under the seats; dinner bags and baskets were cautiously removed from the hall from which they had been suspended, and expectation, if not children, themselves, was certainly on tip-toe, when the teacher, a grave, staid looking lady, drew from some mysterious hiding place beneath the belt of her black silk apron, a huge old-fashioned, silver watch, and glancing leisurely at its shining face, pronounced in her usual modest tone,
the welcome word—

"School is dismissed."

And then what shouting, what scrambling over seats and benches, what chattering, with laughing in short, what un-universal hubbub, as the children, big and little, boys and girls all made a grand rush for the open door! and with one glad and shout, sought their usual shelter un-neath the old butternut, each one concerning, of course, to select a seat next the teacher, although the broad shadow was ample enough to have sheltered twice their number.

There goes Madge Wilder off to the woods, to eat her dinner with the and grasshoppers," shouted one noisy group, pointing derisively to old figure in a calico sun-bonnet, with her dinner basket upon her arm slowly and lonely limping down to Between the time of its beginning and now, there have probably been various grades of excellence with respect to the management of this institution; and yet, judging from its present state, one thinks that from the beginning there must have been a steady improvement.

The systematic arrangement of the household; the general order and cleanliliness, and the methods of employment, instruction and entertainment of the children, are highly commendable.

Such unqualified praise will seem to many excessive, unless such will consider how much he himself has been excited to do or some one of two occasions when his sympathies were thoroughly aroused.
The attendants at this place live and la-better feelings. Their compliments are more
